TWO FINE ADDRESSES.

Hon. C. O. Hildebrand Fails to Arrive—
Sickness the Cause—Music by Wilberforce Band.

The Republican meeting at the opera house Thursday evening was not a large one, the house being comfortably filled. It was a disappointment that the Hon. C. O. Hildebrand did not arrive, he being detained at home on account of sickness in his family. Many in this vicinity have as yet not had the pleasure of hearing our congressman and were out on this evening for that purpose.

A band from Wilberforce arrived early in the evening and paraded the streets, which brought about considerable enthusiasm.

About eight o'clock the Gen. D. K. Watson, of Columbus, was introduced and took up both state and national issues and discussed them freely. His eulogy to the late President McKinley was very appealing. The General is a fine speaker, possessing a fine appearance and commanding voice. He was listened to very attentively.

Mr. W. H. Miller of Wilmington was next introduced, he making himself acquainted with the audience by repeating a number of jokes and stories. Mr. Miller gave a solid talk, setting forth the issues of the Republican party. With this speech the meeting closed. The Wilberforce band rendered valuable service to the occasion.

Reform Convention.

In the M. E. Church, Jamestown, beginning Monday evening, Nov. 4, there will be a reform convention. An excellent program of subjects and speakers has been prepared. In addition to the list of speakers from various places in this county, Rev. R. C. Wylie, D. D., of Pittsburg, Pa., will be present and give three addresses. The convention opens Monday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Prof. W. R. McGowen will speak on the topic, "The Importance of the Public Schools to Our National Life." Rev. Wylie will speak on "Christian Education in the Public Schools."

On Tuesday morning at 9:30 the general subject will be Temperance. "Temperance in the Home" will be discussed by Rev. J. H. McNary, "Myself and Neighbor" by Rev. W. S. McClure and "The Education of the People" by Miss Mary Murdock. Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 the general subject will be The Home. "Dangers of the Home," by Rev. L. B. Albert, "National Salvation" by Rev. Wylie.

Subject for Tuesday evening is The Sabbath. "Disregard of the Sabbath in the Home Life," Rev. W. A. Robb, "Disregard of the Sabbath in the Social and National Life," Rev. C. W. Briggs, "Christian Civil Government as a Remedy for Anarchy," Rev. R. C. Wylie.

Gives Up the Fight.

George Shrodes, who for some time has been conducting a saloon, has found that business has been so helplessly ruined that he was forced to discontinue and seek some other occupation.

Mr. Shrodes conducted a saloon in the Mitchell room about the center of town and since the screen and ten o'clock ordinances went into effect his business has been forced to the wall. This has not only been true of Mr. Shrodes but of the other saloon-keepers. We heard a man say the other day that there wasn't enough saloon business here since the present ordinances went into effect to support the saloon. We are sorry indeed that council did not take action sooner. The effect of our new ordinances is being watched by several towns as well as by our citizens, and we think, under the circumstances, we are better off than any town with local option.

Cells Him a "Light-Weight."

Several days ago while passing a place of no little notoriety in the county seat, we heard the proprietor remark, "I'd like to see that guy defeated," referring to our candidate for representative who happened along on the opposite side of the street at the time. "He's one of them light weight, whiskey-haters and country jakes, nominated last spring. If they don't hold him a good wind will blow him away. They weren't satisfied, they turned down a good man." This was as much of the conversation we heard and from the tone of it we didn't care to hear any more. We have to take it for granted that the proprietor of this place considers his friend, the defeated candidate, a "heavy-weight", one who carries weights in his boots to keep him steady. We will agree with him, for from all reports his record at Columbus during his stay certainly entitles him to the term of a "heavy-weight."

We cannot express for all, but for ourselves we do not care to have that class in our legislative bodies. We do not take much stock in these men that have to carry a gauge or two in order to be a heavy-weight, or to be one of the boys, or one of those jolly good fellows. People don't want legislation from the minds of that class of people. The citizens of Greene county should shout loud in their praises over having a MAN for representative on the Republican ticket. First of all he is a christian with a clear record; he is a good substantial farmer making an honest living; he is a politician with clean hands and a clear conscience. We would like for the "ring" supporter, the man who conducts a hotel, gambling room and saloon, to make a comparison between his "heavy-weight" and the country jake "light-weight."

Interview With Member of School Board.

While in conversation with a prominent merchant and a member of the school board in regard to the outlook for the change in the public school building, he says that he would never sanction the expenditure of a penny for a new addition to the present building. His reason is that the present site is not a desirable one, owing to the noise about the institution, and the sanitary conditions not being the best.

He was asked as to what he considered the best plan under the circumstances. The reply was "If possible, sell the present building and lot to some manufacturing concern that might be induced to locate here. Owning to the position along the railroad it would make a first class manufacturing site. Then apply the proceeds towards another location with a much improved and modern building."

We think this a very good idea and would suggest that the business men of the town get together and form an organization for the purpose of bringing manufacturing concerns here. We understand there is quite a number of concerns over the country that are seeking locations in the smaller places where rents, taxes and insurance are much cheaper. They also want away from the cities, owing to labor difficulties always arising.

Now is the time to strike to be able to get a few of the concerns interested and in line for spring. The business men of the town certainly realize the great value the paper mill has been to the place. Had we a half dozen such concerns that run as steady as the Hagar Straw Board & Paper Co., you would find the old town of Cedarville a hum of industry. Let us have a meeting of the business men and take such steps as are necessary for the advancement of enterprises. What's the matter with the board of trustees?

Pedagogues to Meet.

The teachers of central Ohio hold their annual meeting in Cincinnati on November 8 and 9. The Cincinnati schools will be open all day Friday solely for the benefit of visiting teachers, and it seems to us that every teacher in the community ought to take advantage of this opportunity to visit the schools that are becoming famous under Dr. Boone's administration.

The chief speakers Friday night and Saturday morning are of national reputation; Supt. Soldan, of St. Louis; Prof. Moulton, of Chicago University, and the now famous author of "Wilderness Ways," Wm. Long, of Connecticut. Besides this, in the corridors of Music Hall, will be an exhibit of the work of the Cincinnati schools.

A special train leaves Xenia Friday morning at 6:45; fare $1.95 round trip, and if two hundred person sign-fy beforehand their intention of going, the rate will be $1.30. Anyone, whether a teacher or not, may go, so here is a fine chance to visit the Queen City.

Plenty of Game.

From all reports there is going to be plenty of game this month for the sportsmen. We hear from all sides that there is an abundance of quail. The hunting season has not opened yet, but is being anxiously awaited for by the local sportsmen. The first day comes in on Sabbath, Nov. 10, and continues for twenty days. We are told that with a certain few the season has already opened, as there has been some hunting done on the quiet. Anyone who takes advantage of the law in this manner should be prosecuted, and they certainly would should charges be filed against them.

Xenia High School (?)

On last Saturday afternoon the college foot-ball team met a team from Xenia on the gridiron. The boys expected to play a high school team, but in this they were badly disappointed. Several members of the Xenia team had a number of years of foot-ball experience in Monmouth, Muskingum and Westminster colleges. During the whole game we never saw a Xenia high school boy carry the ball or make a tackle. The entire game was played by the outsiders.

Before the game had been played five minutes, two of the home team's best players had to leave the game on account of injuries. Their places were filled with substitutes, but they were not familiar with the signals and it was hard for the team to get together. Neither side scored in the first half. Xenia secured a touchdown in the second and the game ended 6 to 0 in favor of Xenia.

The Night Before Christmas.

The story of "The Night Before Christmas", the beautiful pastoral drama which comes to Cedarville November 14 is a most unique one and the author has furnished the magnificent cast producing this play every opportunity for intense dramatic action. The story opens in a country farm house where John Phillips, Jr., the drunken son of Judge John Phillips, has been sent to reform. He has been at this farm house for almost a year and though surrounded by the benign influence of his Quaker grandmother, he has failed to effect the reformation desired. The story opens on the night before Christmas and his father, the Judge, is expected home to attend the wedding of a friend. When the Judge and his wife arrive, there is general rejoicing in the neighborhood, for he is held in high esteem by the citizens of the community. Jack, the son, greets him and is reprimanded for his bad habits and tells his father that there is one way he can reform. That is by his being allowed to marry Marion Williams, the belle of the neighborhood, with whom he is greatly in love. The Judge forbids this marriage on the grounds that there is a cloud over the girl's birth, and while they are talking Marion Williams herself appears at the door and hears the conversation about her. She meekly submits to the caustic criticism of the father and the boy, when she starts home, against his father's wishes goes with her. The father is angered at the action of his son but his feelings are swallowed up in the greetings given him by his old friends and neighbors and they all start for the wedding while some of the party decide to go to the Covenanter church to help with the Christmas decorations.

Jack and Marion return to the house and their conversation is interrupted by the appearance of Bud Means, the country "bully." He is in love with Marion also and when he finds Jack Phillips has won Marion's heart, he insultingly recalls the cloud over her birth and for his impudence is knocked down by Jack. He swears vengeance. Jack and Marion go on to the church where Marion assists with the decorations. As all the old folks are about to leave, Bud Means appears again on the scene and finding Marion alone in the church, attempts to force from her a promise of marriage and, failing in this, he declares he will make her unfit for any man's wife. Jack fortunately appears about this time and Bud is soundly thrashed outside the church. As he comes to his senses Joe Miller, now a tramp, appears on the scene and recognizes Bud as the man who had induced his wife to leave home and whom afterwards Bud Means cruelly murdered. Joe has come to the old Covenanter churchyard this night to visit his wife's grave and had sworn to kill the man who wrecked his home if he ever met him. He had picked up a knife which Jack had dropped while out cutting holly for the decorations and with this knife in hand, he recognizes the betrayer of his home, calls him to account and finally stabs him to death. Bud falls in the same spot where Jack had knock him down and Marion Williams, standing in the church door, dimly sees the murder. She screams and faints and Jack rushes out and, bending over the body of Bud Means declares that he has killed him. Joe Miller has escaped without being recognized. Jack is arraigned for murder. In an unparalleled court-room scene in which his father is compelled to try the son for murder, Jack is convicted and sentenced to be electrocuted. Joe Miller perjures himself and declares that Jack is the murderer and the third act closes by the father sentencing his own son. In the meantime Judge Phillips is elected Governor of the state and the question of pardon for son is argued pro and con by both the attorneys in the case and the friends and enemies of the accused, but the Governor, with his high sense of honor, after the Supreme court has failed to reverse its decision, refuses to interfere in the case.

EVIDENT

That The School Board Must Prepare to Furnish

MORE SCHOOL ROOM.

Present Quarters Greatly Crowded—
Committee Appointed to Investigate.—Citizens Must Stand by the Board.

There was a meeting of school board in the Mayor's office on Monday evening for the purpose of making some preparations towards better accommodations for the pupils of the first three rooms. In these rooms alone there are in the neighborhood of 140 pupils. Room number three seems to be the most crowded, Miss Duffield having 63 pupils.

The school board realizes that it is almost impossible for a teacher to handle that many pupils in the lower grades in a satisfactory manner. It is almost impossible to keep the room the proper temperature and have it ventilated as it should be. Messrs. David McFarland and Robert Gray were appointed a committee to investigate and see what could be done. There was some talk of hiring another teacher and renting a room out in some other part of town and hold school here, but the committee found it would come in contact with many disagreeable things and dropped that idea. In conversation with the members of the committee we learned that it is the intention now to put part of the pupils that are now in number three back in number two, and part of number two back to number one. This would cause an overcrowded room for number one, but the committee, to arrange for this, has decided to only have school a half day in the first room, part of the pupils in the first room, part of the pupils in the afternoon. This plan is already in vogue in Cincinnati and Columbus as well as many smaller places. Our greatest educators contend that four hours' school is long enough for a beginner. We think the committee has acted wisely in adjusting the above plan, for it would almost be impossible to hire another teacher as the board is very close on finances.

As predicted in the HERALD this fall, after the opening of school it was evident that the board would have to take steps for enlargement of the building before the opening of another school year. At present the enrollment is about 295, the largest enrollment in the history of the school, and it is expected to go beyond the three hundred mark after cold weather sets in.

At the time the present building was erected, no doubt the situation as good as could be procured, but in this late day of advancement and improvement we have growing industries about the institution that are bothersome. Next, the present building was never built with any intention of extension, for should an addition be built it would spoil one or more of the present rooms. The board will have this question to settle and they might as well make preparations for a change.

Splendid Opening.

A large and appreciative audience gathered at the opera house Tuesday evening at the opening number of the lecture course. The lecture course committees have every reason to feel encouraged in their undertaking should the succeeding numbers prove as entertaining and pleasing as did the Chicago Glee Club. The course this season is by far the most expensive that has been procured for the patrons of the lecture course, consequently the talent must be of the best. The numbers on the program proved very popular with the audience.

Overheard at the Telephone.

Ting-aling-aling-aling.
"Hello! Hello Central! Give me the whole office, please."
"Hello, whose this?"
"Ho! I'm Mollie Money-saver and say, down at McCollum's Jewelry Store, this morning I bought the prettiest little watch you ever saw and—"
"Hello! Say, wait a minute; I want to tell you that I only paid $15.00 for it, and I know Carrie Careless paid $20. for hers and mine is better. And say! McCollum has such a lot of watches that he can suit anyone, for he will sell you a watch for a dollar if you want that kind. His prices fit any purse. Oh, say! Don't ring me off yet; wait till I tell you about the rings."
"Can't wait. I'll listen to you some other time. Good bye, Mollie."
Ting-aling.

A very small crowd was out on Wednesday evening to hear Volney B. Cushing, of Maine, in his temperance lecture. He set forth the doctrine of the prohibition party. The Republican and Democratic parties came in for their usual amount of criticism.

O. E. Bradfute has had some much needed improvements made about the telephone exchange room. The room has been papered and new carpet put on the floor, also a railing placed across to keep outsiders from interfering with the electrical apparatus. The room now presents a very cozy appearance.

John Moore, a colored man who suffered with typhoid fever for several days died Monday. Funeral services were held from the A. M. E. church Wednesday afternoon.

Linemen for the local telephone company have been at work during the past week re-arranging the wires at various places over town. The capacity of the switch board now in use is about taxed to its fullest extent. It is stated that there are some fifteen new subscribers to be connected as soon as the change can be made.

Mrs. R. C. Watt is visiting her sister in New York City. She will be absent about six weeks.

Miss Lida Torrence and Mrs. Z. T. Phillips returned a few days since from a delightful trip at the Pan-American.

The Bell telephone people, who started to erect a plant in South Charleston, found too strong competition and gave up the fight, according to a dispatch to the Enquirer.

The citizens of South Charleston are endeavoring to have a lecture course. It is probable they will have the Chicago Glee Club for the opening number. They will find this organization a first-class company.

Mrs. Will Spencer has been quite sick for several days, suffering with pleurisy.

The directors of the local telephone company were in session at the hotel Thursday. The advisability of purchasing a new board was discussed. Messrs. S. B. Rankin and J. G. McMillan were present at the meeting.

Messrs. E. W. Hager, H. M. Barber and a number of the teamsters were in Washington O. H. Thursday attending a suit that had been brought against the paper company.

Miss Electa Chase who traiked a number of young folks here some months ago for a Tom Thumb wedding will give a similar entertainment at Lebanon this evening.

There will be two great issues at the coming election which should not be overlooked by all good Republicans. Vote that Senator Foraker may be re-elected and that Ohio may not be re-districted.

Mr. Thomas Funk rode over from Springfield on his wheel Sabbath to attend services at the R. P. (O. S.) church. He stopped with his cousin, the Misses McNeill.

The Western Star says there are eight vacant business rooms in Lebanon. Well, eight months ago ten saloons moved out, so there are two less vacant rooms now, anyway. Pity the blind star—Lebanon Republican.

Miss Eleanor Smith gave a Halloween party Thursday evening to a number of her friends.

A masquerade party was given in the college, Thursday evening, by the students. The event was also in keeping with Halloween and a very enjoyable time was had. The masques were very unique.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper gave a party to quite a large number of their friends last evening. This evening they will again entertain another crowd.

There are several cases of scarlet fever about town but none of them serious, the disease being of a very light form. It is customary to say now that whenever a person is sick he has a contagious disease. That it is with some.

Marshal Grindle reports that Thursday night was the quietest night he has seen for many a Halloween. Only a few gates were removed and but little damage done by throwing cabbage. Early in the evening a light wagon was put on top of the cheese factory.

Mr. Hugh Murdoch and family arrived here from Virginia Wednesday and will visit relatives here for some time.

The brick masons were at work several days this week, but have been forced to quit again on account of stone. The several drawbacks are greatly annoying to Contractor McLean.

Are you going to have your vote counted with that 100,000 majority which Mark Hanna says Nash will poll in November? Better get on the winning side, and cast a vote for prosperity.

Every vote for the Republican ticket in Ohio this fall will be a tribute of honor to the memory of William McKinley.

Mark Hanna's endorsement of Governor Nash as "an intelligent, honest and efficient agent in the execution of a great trust," ought to carry great weight with the people of Ohio.

The falling off in registration in some of the larger cities of the state seems to have served as a blessing in disguise, for it has attracted the attention of the state and has resulted in a more organized effort to get out the registration. As a consequence of this warning the registration has been much larger.

Ohio voters must be thoroughly aroused to the necessity of re-electing the policies of President McKinley and sending to his successor the first message that they are to be maintained and upheld as a vital part of American policy.

"Let hell enough alone," said Senator Hanna. No man who has the interest of his country or state at heart can fall to feel the full force of this homely phrase.

Governor Nash rightly says that Senator Foraker should be re-elected to help President Roosevelt carry out the McKinley policies.

The greatest demonstration of the day at the Delaware meeting was when Senator Hanna declared he had no intention to retire.

Ohio will express its approval of President Roosevelt on the fifth of November.

No true son of Ohio can afford to turn his back upon the great statesman of Canton, who gave his life to his country.

Take Care How You Vote.
EDITOR GAZETTE.—It is important that no drunkard shall be elected to a county office or to any other on the 5th of November. Even though he has been nominated and whether his nomination has been secured by fair means, or not, he should be defeated. His defeat will help the temperance cause. His election will be an injury to it. His example and influence as a frequenter of the grog shops will be more pernicious by reason of his possession of office. All those who vote for such a man involve themselves in the crime of liquor drinking and drunk enness, since they encourage him in his course and increase his influence over boys and young men.

Not is it sufficient merely to decline voting for a drunkard, gambler or debauchee, who is a candidate for office. It is a duty to vote for his competitor, provided he is a more decent and better man. No matter if the immoral man be the candidate of your political party, you will benefit not only the country, but also your political party by defeating him. The Republican will do his party an important service by defeating an unworthy, immoral candidate. The Democrat will best serve his party in the same way. Unfortunately, in Greene county one of the political parties has so large a majority that any rascal, who secures nomination confidently expects to be elected. But even in case the unworthy nominee cannot be defeated, it has a good effect to reduce the majority as much as possible.

Not long since the present writer suggested that our temperance friends in the country would endeavor to aid us, our cause in Xenia. It is to be hoped that the temperance voters in Greene county will carefully look over the list of candidates, and if they find among them any dram-drinking whisky-blot, that they will endeavor to defeat him by voting for the more decent and better candidate on the other side.

D. MacDILL.

DUTY OF REPUBLICANS.

The Republican party is armed and equipped at all points. It is the dominant party in Ohio, because it is the party of progress and the party of fidelity to its pledges; because the people of Ohio are intelligent and patriotic, and because the Republican party has been faithful to them in all things. It is the duty of each and every Republican in Ohio to see that the record of the state is not dimmed, even by a lessening of the normal Republican majority, and to remember with Governor Nash, that if a hostile blow is to be struck at the policy of President McKinley—the policy of the Republican party—Ohio should be the last state in the Union to strike the blow.

November 5, 1901, should stand out in history as the day on which the people of Ohio rendered a tremendous endorsement of the work of their greatest son. No man neglect his duty on that day.

A glorious opportunity awaits the people of Ohio, an opportunity that is eagerly coveted by the people of other states, to offer, by the means of the ballot, a tribute of honor to the memory of William McKinley.

Can the people of Ohio permit the traducers of William McKinley to glory in a triumph over the defeat of the principles for which he labored so grandly and successfully?

"We must succeed," says Senator Mark. Why? Because the honor and dignity of the country, and the continuance of prosperity, demands it.

The mighty sun of prosperity cannot be dimmed by the little tramp planet of a tax issuer.

VALUE OF STOCKS.

The Market Price at a Given Date No Fair Criterion For Assessment.
The practice of assessing corporations with reference to the market value of their stock is open to serious objections. Corporate stock is always liable to violent fluctuations, and the market value on any day may be 50 per cent or more higher or lower than on another day, such value always being regulated by events which tend to increase or decrease the amount of dividends on the stock. There is, therefore, no stable or mean value of stock which can be taken as a true measure of normal value for the purpose of taxation.

In Adams Express Company v. Ohio, 155 U. S. Reports, 194, the Supreme Court of the United States held that the market value of the shares of stock in a corporation is the true value. But in this decision the court appears to have based its conclusion on the status of three strong and reliable express companies, the Adams, American, and United States, the stock of which is quite stable in value and not liable to very great fluctuations. But while shares in the old and well-established companies are quite stable in value, there may be hundreds which are subject to violent fluctuations, and have no normal or mean value for the purpose of equitable taxation. The stocks of many corporations are so variable that no fair valuation can be given them for any length of time.

Before the purchase of a controlling interest in the Lake Erie and Western railroad by the Vanderbilts the stock of the road was at a very low figure. But as soon as the road passed into the hands of a strong corporation its stock quickly rose to a high figure. It thus required a value that was purely speculative, or generated by the change of control of the road. But such value was not normal or stable, and might relapse to the former low figure should the road pass out of the Vanderbilt control.

When Joseph B. Foraker and Mark A. Hanna took arms and walk grandly across the great political arena the Republicans of the country can shout themselves hoarse with joy.

"Mene, Mene, tekel, upharsin." The people to John R. McLean.

GOVERNOR NASH.

There is not a single reason why Governor Nash should not be re-elected. His administration has been wise and economical. Not only has the authority of the law been maintained, but the state institutions have been conducted in a conservative and careful manner, and the financial interests of the state have been managed so carefully that the funded debt will be wiped out within the next two years without a doubt. No Republican should desire the election of a Democrat in place of Governor Nash.

Every vote cast for the Republican ticket in Ohio this fall will be a tribute to the worth and virtues of the great leader who sleeps amid the peaceful stillness of his Canton home. Every vote for the policies which he inaugurated and maintained will be like a tender flower cast upon the tomb of William McKinley, the greatest statesman of modern times.

The opening meeting of the Democratic campaign at Bucyrus did not compare with the Republican opening at Delaware in attendance or enthusiasm.

It would be poor policy to swap a wise and statesman-like governor like Nash for a novice like Kilbourne.

Bad Coughs

"I had a bad cough for six weeks and could find no relief until I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Only one-fourth of the bottle cured me."
L. Hawn, Newington, Ont.

Neglected colds always lead to something serious. They run into chronic bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma, or consumption. Don't wait, but take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral just as soon as your cough begins. A few doses will cure you then.

Be sure and get the genuine. Three strict directions for its use are given on the wrapper. It is a safe, reliable, and economical remedy for all kinds of coughs, colds, and asthma. It is sold by all druggists and by J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
